Reactions from around the region on the sale of Market Basket to Arthur T. Demoulas, ending the six-week standoff and boycott of the chain's 71 grocery stores in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Maine.

"I think employees see the power of harnessing social media to change the course of a company. What's been interesting is how corporate decisions played out in the media, and on social media, for everyone to see. It's highly unusual."

-- Maura Greene, a Boston employment attorney who followed the Market Basket brinksmanship closely
